Dear readers,

Let me start with all praise be to Allah "Alhamdulillah". With arrival of spring, all trees and plants are in bloom. Trees bring new leaves on their branches. Colourful butterflies fly up in the air. The sun is so alluring. People will be full of energy with happiness and peace.

Like blossom, our magazine is very special and it is not a magazine you will read once and put on a shelf. Instead, it is a magazine you will like to pick up again. We hope that the more you read it, the more it will become helpful for your vocabulary. You will get long-term memory if you keep us.

Grammar is not the only important thing in a language. You also need a wide vocabulary, a lot of practice in listening, speaking, reading and writing. We hope that you will enjoy reading our magazine.

Our first English school magazine is designed and prepared by editorial staff. Finally it came up. After a few introductory words, I am sure you are interested in what this 1st edition is like. There are plenty of articles that we mentioned for you to read.

The magazine has benefited enormously from the hard work and professionalism of our editorial team that is organized by Aslı Arundon, Dilruba Mutuel, Ayca Akdinoğlu. Our thanks to them...

Teachers in our school were kind enough to try out sections of the draft material with their classes and sent us their comments. These were extremely helpful and enabled us to make a large number of corrections and improvements. We are very grateful to these individuals and institutions, and to their students.

Introduction Of Tefvik Ileri Anatolian Imam Hatip High School

With the name of Allah, the compassionate and merciful; thank goodness to Allah, the creator of the highest creatures. Regards to our Prophet, sent as a mercy to the world and the most auspicious of all teachers.

Dear Imam Hatip lovers;

Each day, we are trying to do the best to grow and develop the sense of raising awareness of the new generations. Until last year, we edited the school magazine once a year. As from this year, we are planning to edit it twice a year.

With Allah's help, efforts and sincerity of our teachers and students, our English magazine starts being published. In last two years, our students are getting better to express their feelings in English. They are good enough to release a school magazine in English. Inshallah next year, our Arabic school magazine will also meet its readers.

Our Prophet wants some companions to learn foreign languages. The world was invited to Islam by means of the letters the companions wrote. The generation who has the responsibility of helping the aggrieved, oppressed ones and disseminating Islamic Belief, must learn foreign languages.

Cemil Meric says that "A nation's language is its honor." Of course while learning a foreign language, we must keep our language with all characteristics. "One language, one person." When you learn a language, you also learn another culture and that makes you another person. We must keep this fact in mind and learn foreign languages. We mustn't use foreign words while speaking our mother tongue. As we try learning new languages, we must also learn and refer to people with love.

Our intention of learning foreign languages is to effuse the name of 'Allah' to the world with love. We thank everyone involved in this magazine. Allah grant that it works out well in the end.

May Allah be with you.

THE 101ST ANNIVERSARY OF OUR VICTORY OF ÇANAKKALE WAS CELEBRATED WITH ACTIVITIES

Mehmet Akif Ersoy's magnificent poem "To The Martyrs of Çanakkale", made the audience have very sentimental moments. The theatrical Show which script was written by our school's Arabic teacher Hatz Ahmet Aldaş and the choral work managed by the music teacher Yaren Yılmaz, also took the audience to a historical journey through time. The 3D show of Çanakkale Wars was prepared by the secondary school students in the guidance of the art teacher Nur Yelgin, was also greeted with interest.

Prep Classes

Our prep students have decorated the hall with the help of their English teacher Esra Güngör and exhibited their projects on the second floor in order to present "How we learn English efficiently". The hall is called "English Street" and here are the photos of our street.

NEW APPROACHES IN TEACHING

As the English teachers of Tervikleri Religious Vocational Secondary School, we know that one of the most important components in teaching English as a foreign language is to help the students love and enjoy the language they are learning.

We use constructivist methods as a theory in teaching. In constructivist approach, which has been applied in education in Turkey since 2005, teachers have the role of guiding the students to learn how to reach the knowledge they need.

This method makes the students to be active in the lessons and let them use their own previous experiences to shape the new knowledge so that they can achieve the real learning. In other words, teachers try to help the students construct the knowledge in their minds.

In this context, we try to use visual, auditory, and kinesthetic activities in our classrooms. The teaching activities we do in the classes, especially in the fifth and sixth grades, get students' attention, help them enjoy the classes, and get them engaged in learning.

Students like being active in learning. They enjoy learning by seeing, hearing, touching and doing. When they learn English this way, we believe that they will be able to use it in the real life. This is what we aim for them actually to learn and to be able to apply what they learn in the real life. We do not want them to learn the language for the standardized tests only.

We are proud of our students...

Book Collection Campaign

Our school arranged book and stationary collection campaign to be sent to Şanlıurfa Haliliye Ümmü Hayır Sema Hatun Religious Junior High School. Thanks to all students who proved themselves to be a very skilled individual and who has the capacity to do great things in their lives.

For our students who love English and singing in English, we have organized a song contest called 'The Voice Of Tervikleri'. As the English department of Tervikleri Religious Vocational Secondary School, we have done this two times before and we are planning it again in the following year.

The main goal for these contests is to help our students enjoy English more while having lots of fun. Here are some pictures/photos from the previous contests. Zeynep Büğra Telge, Azranur Anık and Nurecan İl were the winners of this year.

THE PURSUIT OF THE IDEAL

As I listened to an indie song I had just discovered, I imagined a grey street with grey people walking in it. And an unusual man with paint bottles in his hand; green, yellow, orange and more. He was maybe someone you might call a "street boy".

He was standing in the middle of the road, looking at the grey horizon between the big grey buildings. He was wearing a red shirt, dark-blue pants and a white hat. Not just his clothes, but also his thoughts were colorful; he wasn't hopeless. He had lots of thoughts but no questions what so ever. He knew what he believed in, he knew what he needed to do.

People were looking at him with confused, curious and sometimes doubtful eyes. Some were bumping into him on purpose, he realized that he hadn't get that much anger from people until he put himself out there with his own clothes, not trying to hide somewhere.

But he didn't care, because he wasn't a servant of people's little thoughts and carings. He was going to pursue his ideal. He was going to make the whole world colorful. And as soon as he realized his decision and what he was about to do, he felt truly free, for the first time in that doomy and gloomy world.

As he colored the streets, cities and countries, despite all the hardships that he had to go through, when he saw the happiness in people... He just thought that it was all worth it. Although they didn't want to change at the beginning, they were all smiling now. Yeah, definitely, it was all worth it.

THE HISTORY OF CHOCOLATE

The first people who consumed chocolate as a drink were a group of native Americans called the Aztecs. The Aztecs actually didn't drink what we call chocolate today, instead, they drank a mixture of fermented cacao beans and other spices. They believed that this mixture was a gift of "Quetzalcoatl", the god of wisdom. Later in the 16th century, after the discovery of America, Spanish conquerors brought cacao beans back to Europe (it was used as a form of currency among the Native American tribes) Sugar was added to the cacao beans and chocolate was made. Chocolate became popular throughout society. First among ruling classes, then among common people. To satisfy their craving for chocolate, European powers established many cacao plantations in which slaves were forced to work day and night. Even when diseases spread throughout the nation, the value of chocolate never decreased. In 1828, Dutch chemist Coenraad Johannes Van Houten invented the cacao press and this invention changed our perspective of chocolate completely. The cacao press processed cocoa beans in a way that made chocolate easily edible and available for common people in terms of prices. In 1847, a British chocolate company called Fry & Sons produced the first chocolate bar from cocoa powder, cocoa butter, and sugar. Other companies kept building new ideas. Some tried chocolate with caramel. Some tried it with nuts. Others invented white chocolate and milk chocolate. By and by, chocolate is now presented to us in the best form possible at our local grocery stores. Let's thank the Aztecs, the Spanish conquistadors and the Dutch chemist guy for lending us a helping hand in the development of chocolate as we know it today.

TRAVELLING

I love travelling, seeing new places and trying to understand different cultures. We travel for work, for a much-needed holiday, to visit faraway loved ones, to find ourselves or sometimes to lose ourselves...

Most of the time, we return home with life-changing travel experiences; new colours and our world vision is impacted by the countries, places we visit.

That excitement we experience upon arrival in a foreign land is just the beginning. As Henry Miller said, "One's destination is never a place, but a new way of seeing things".

Numerous studies have shown that, travel is a major trigger for a personal growth. The more familiar you are with a place and its culture, the more likely you will experience a deeper understanding of the world and perhaps yourself.

St Augustine said, "The world is a book and those who do not travel, read only one page". So, keep travelling...

Now, let's have a look at the Italian coast and start dreaming.

EXPLORING THE ITALIAN COAST

Imagine a place where life is so colourful, in spite of all shades of grey; we call it Amalfi, Positano and Ravello.

POSITANO

Positano is the coast's most picturesque and photogenic town, with vertiginous houses tumbling down to the sea in a cascade of sun-bleached peach, pink and terracotta colours. No less colourful are its steep streets and steps lined with wisteria-draped hotels, smart restaurants and fashionable boutiques.

John Steinbeck visited in 1953 and wrote in an article for Harper's Bazaar, "Positano bites deep. It is a dream place that isn't quite real when you are there and becomes beckoningly real after you have gone".

AMALFI

It is hard to grasp that pretty little Amalfi, with its sun-kissed piazzas and small beach, was once a maritime superpower with a population of more than 70,000. For one thing, it's not a big place – you can easily walk from one end to the other in about 20 minutes. For another, there are very few historical buildings of note. The explanation is chilling: most of the old city, and its populace, simply slid into the sea during an earthquake in 1343.

RAVELLO

Sitting high in the hills above Amalfi, Ravello is a refined, polished town almost entirely dedicated to tourism (and increasingly popular as a wedding venue). Boasting impeccable bohemian credentials – Wagner, DH Lawrence and Virginia Woolf all spent time here – it's today known for its ravishing gardens and stupendous views; the best in the world according to former resident Gore Vidal, and certainly the best on the coast.

Spring and Winter Celebrations All Over The World

Holi Festival

One of the major festivals of India, Holi is celebrated with enthusiasm and gaiety on the full moon day in the month of Phalgun which is the month of March in the Gregorian calendar.

Holi festival may be celebrated with various names and people of different states might be following different traditions. But, what makes Holi so unique and special is the spirit of it which remains the same throughout the country and even across the globe, wherever it is celebrated.

Feyza Aşık 9/H

Welcome to the Nation's Greatest Springtime Celebration!

Each year, the National Cherry Blossom Festival celebrates spring in Washington, D.C., the gift of the cherry blossom trees, and the enduring friendship between the people of the United States and Japan. The Festival produces and coordinates daily events featuring diverse and creative programming promoting traditional and contemporary arts and culture, natural beauty, and community spirit. Events are primarily free and open to the public.

Winter Celebrations

Learn about unique traditions, celebrations and holidays that occur around the world during December and January.

Chinese New Year

Chinese New Year is the most important of the traditional Chinese holidays. It falls on different dates each year, between January 21st and February 20th. Visits to friends and family take place during this celebration. The color gold is said to bring wealth and the color red is considered especially lucky. The New Year's Eve dinner is very huge and includes fish, dumplings and dumplings.

Christmas

Christmas is a celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ. Christmas in the United States brings together many customs from other countries and cultures. Around the world, family members help to decorate trees and homes with bright lights, wreaths, candles, holly, reindeer and ornaments. On Christmas Eve, many people go to the church. Also on Christmas Eve, Santa comes from the North Pole on a sleigh to deliver gifts; in Hawaii, it's said he arrives by boat; in Australia, the jolly man arrives on water skis; in Ghana, he comes out of the jungle.

Eid Al Adha, the Festival of the Sacrifice

Eid Al Adha is celebrated by Muslims on the 10th day of the month of the lunar calendar (in 2004, it fell on December 6) to commemorate the willingness of the prophet Ibrahim (or Abraham) to sacrifice his son for God. Today, Muslims sacrifice an animal - usually a goat or a sheep - as a reminder of Ibrahim's obedience to God. The meat is shared with family, friends, Muslims or non-Muslims, as well as the poor members of the community.

Hannukah

Jewish people celebrate Hannukah, a holiday honoring the Maccabees' victory over King Antiochus, who forbade Jews to practice their religion. For eight nights, Hannukah is celebrated with prayer, the lighting of the menorah and food. A menorah has nine candles, a candle for every night, plus a helper candle. Children play games, sing songs and exchange gifts. Potato pancakes, known as latkes in Yiddish, are traditionally associated with Hannukah and are served with applesauce and sour cream.

Kwanzaa

On December 26, Kwanzaa is celebrated. It's a holiday to commemorate African heritage. Kwanzaa lasts a week during which participants gather family and friends to exchange gifts and to light a series of black, red and green candles which symbolize the seven basic values of African American family life that are unity, self-determination, collective work and responsibility, cooperative economics, purpose, creativity and faith.

New Year's Day

New Year's Day is the first of the year in the Gregorian calendar on January 1. There are often fireworks at midnight to celebrate the new year. Commonly served in the southern part of the United States, black-eyed peas are thought to bring luck and prosperity for the new year, greens (usually collards) bring wealth and pork because pig root forward.

Three Kings Day

At the end of the Twelve Days of Christmas comes a day called the Epiphany or Three Kings Day. This holiday is celebrated as the day the three wise men first saw baby Jesus and brought him gifts. On this day in Spain, many children get their Christmas presents. In Puerto Rico, before children go to sleep on January 5, they leave a box with hay under their beds so the kings will leave good presents. In France, a delicious King cake is baked. Bakers will hide a coin, jewel or little toy inside it.

Winter Solstice

The Winter Solstice occurs around December 21st, the longest night of the year. People all over the world participate in festivals and celebrations. Long ago, people celebrated by lighting bonfires and candles.

Spring is a wonderful time of the year to try new bright trends. Here are some new modish casual outfits in the girly style spirit with cute pastel hues of pinks and mints. This season long cardigans, classic vests, trench summer coats and more are available. A linen button-down shirt is a spring staple. It is lightweight.

Since spring is the season of pastel colours, it would be the perfect time to pull out your pastel scarves or Hijabs. The fabric choice can be between cotton, linen or any other soft material. It is extremely important to match your Hijab and Hijab cap with the outfit you wear. This does not only mean matching colours but also Hijab styles.

THE LEGEND ABOUT DOMBRA

I would like to share with you the beautiful power of Dombra. Dombra is Kazakh national instrument and is a huge part of our culture

There is a famous legend, 'Ak Kark Kulan' in Kazakh culture, which explains why Dombra looks like this.

Once upon a time the son of the Bai (big landowner) went hunting and when he sees a hurt baby onager, he aims to shoot it. The mother of the baby onager tries to protect her child, and crashes onto the son of the Bai. In a collision, the son falls off his horse and dies. Everyone, who has seen it, is afraid to tell about this accident to the Bai because he threatened to fill the throat of anyone who brings him bad news with melted lead. One of the village akyns (musician) volunteers. When he comes to see the Bai, he starts to play on the Dombra, the language and the sadness of the music tell the story to the Bai. When the Bai tries to punish the akyn, the akyn said: "I didn't bring you bad news. I didn't even say a word..." After that Bai orders to punish the dombra, which previously had five strings. When the melted lead was put in the dombra, it left a round hole and only two strings.

You can also view the short cartoon on this legend, in the following link:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=rxsCQDaq6no>

I think it is a beautiful story, because it shows how without any words, music of dombra can transfer any meaning, feeling or a story.

Classical Music

Salieri's Challenge With Mozart

As we know, Mozart is one of the most famous pianists in the world. He was such a genius that he composed his first piece in his 5. He lived for 35 years and he left 626 pieces behind him.

There were a lot of contemporary pianists with Mozart.

One of them was Antonio Salieri who was Italian. The fact Salieri was also talented but living in the same age with Mozart was his bad luck. Mozart was more famous than Salieri among public so Mozart's pieces overshadowed Salieri's. When Mozart died, there were a lot of rumours. One of them was that Mozart was poisoned. Some people thought Salieri intoxicated Mozart. These rumours are still being discussed.

In 1984, a movie was shot, called Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart. Salieri is someone who loves music and wants to be a pianist. But at the time there is someone whose name is Mozart. Mozart's fame is heard by all people. Everybody talks about Mozart. Then Salieri becomes a pianist in the Palace and composes songs for the King. But one day, Mozart is noticed by the King. Mozart is someone who is arrogant and spoiled. He just likes himself and just his own pieces. Salieri knows how talented Mozart is. But as the time passes by, Salieri's admiration turns into hatred. He thinks that Mozart is so spoiled and he doesn't deserve this gift. Salieri must be the best because he deserves this fame. One day, Mozart gets ill but he has to compose a piece for money. But there is a little time and he has no strength to do this. So his wife wants help from Salieri. Salieri can't refuse this request and helps Mozart. But while they are trying to finish the piece of music, Mozart dies. At the end of the movie Salieri gets mad because he convinces himself for Mozart's death. And then he is taken into mental hospital. Movie starts with the scene of Salieri's confession.

The movie is in the Top 100 Movie Lists. We suggest you watch this movie. During the movie, you will listen to Mozart's awesome operas, sonatas and pieces. And also you will witness the conflict between Mozart and Salieri.

The 10 Weirdest and Most Wonderful Libraries In The World

Let's do a word association exercise. When I say "books, borrowing, building..." you'd say "library." Great. We're off to a good start. Let's try again: "Donkey, tank, phone booth, UFO..." Anybody? No, it has nothing to do with donkey versus alien combat. This one's a little tougher. Okay, I'll give it to you. The answer, once again, is "library." See, although the libraries most of us visit on the regular are dull municipal buildings that we'd avoid were they not full of thousands of free books, some communities have fanciful architectural wonders, animals who deliver books to children, repurposed phone booths full of reading material on the street, and other wonderfully unexpected ways of bringing reading to the people.

MERYEM BENYAM DAŞTAN 79 VA 11-F

1. The BiblioBurro: Delivering Books Via Donkey

Let's start with the BiblioBurro. He's top of our list because, have you seen how adorable baby donkeys are? Oh, and because he brings books to children who wouldn't otherwise have access to them. Luis Soriano—a primary school teacher who runs the BiblioBurro program in his spare time—loads his donkeys, Alfa and Beta, full of books then travels up to four hours one way to visit villages in rural Colombia. Once there, he reads to the young people, helps them with homework, and loans them books from his mobile library. The BiblioBurro has brought literacy and the joy of reading to an estimated 4,000 kids so far, which makes Soriano's tale of breaking his leg in a donkey fall and getting tied to a tree by bandits seem worth it.

2. The Levitski Garden Library: Cataloging Emotional History

Designed to serve refugees and migrant workers in Israel, The Levitski Garden Library is an outdoor facility with books in fifteen languages, located in the Tel Aviv park where those populations gather. There are no walls, doors, or guards; its two illuminated shelves—one for adults and a shorter one for kids—provide a welcoming glow throughout the night while a large canopy protects the tomes from weather and gives visitors shelter while they browse the library's 2,500 books. The books, which range from bestsellers to graphic novels to classic literature, are arranged not by author, genre, or Dewey Decimal system, but by the emotions they elicit. Every book asks the reader to describe it as amusing, bizarre, boring, depressing, exciting, inspiring, or sentimental. Each emotion is color-coded, and each reader's response is permanently recorded in the form of colored tape reflecting their reaction to the book, which is reshelfed according to the most recent reaction. The library's site explains that "the books wander between the shelves as their readers have wandered/are wandering the world. They carry with them their emotional history." There'd have to be nothing worse as a writer than visiting the library and finding 80 pieces of "boring" color-coded tape attached to your work.

10. Vasconcelos Library: Entering The Matrix

Mexico City's 409,000-square-foot Vasconcelos Library is known as the Megabiblioteca (megalibrary), making it sound as much like Godzilla's sack of nemeses as a haven for bibliophiles. Alberto Kalck, who designed the building after winning Mexico's first international architecture competition in more than a century, created a space that appears to have been taken straight out of a Matrix-inspired dream—with books on crystal shelves that seem to be suspended in mid-air, huge industrial steel fittings, and five grid-like levels with turquoise-tinted glass floors. The 500,000-volume overbook has open courtyard featuring enormous striped whale bones floating from the ceiling.

9. Micro Libraries: Transforming Objects Into Book Havens

You've probably heard of Little Free Libraries. Heck, you might even have one in your front yard and if you don't you can fix that. The wooden boxes on poles are sprouting up everywhere. In 2009, to honor his late father, Todd Bol puts little wooden houses full of books outside his house with a sign indicating that people should take or leave a book. Four years later, Publisher Weekly reports that there are now nearly 6,000 of the tiny libraries in forty countries around the world. Around the same time Bol was erecting the first Little Free Library, the Brits were recycling their iconic red phone boxes into 24-hour mini libraries. Berlin created a book forest, cutting shelves into the trunks of fallen trees. The trees are grouped together on a city street and passersby can take or leave a book any time. These never-does-it-look-wrapping spots take a lot of different forms, but they all spread the love of books and encourage the discovery of new authors.

8. The Kenyan Camel Library: Serving Nomadic Populations

Let you think mules are the only animal who can tote a library around on their backs, meet the library camel of Kenya (someone form an indie band and call it that, please). The camels carry both books and camping gear for the traveling librarians as they travel across the desert. The caravan visits people in nomadic communities where literacy rates can be as low as 15 percent due, in large part, to lack of access to reading material. The Kenya National Library Service started the program in 1985 and has been sending caravans of book-toting, lump-backed service animals across the desert ever since. The program already serves between 5,000 and 6,000 patrons. Their demand for expansion, but resources are limited. According to the BBC, all size of the camel used a male.

7. Stuttgart City Library: Putting The Focus On Books

The Stuttgart City Library looks like an Apple store, designed by M.C. Escher. On the outside, it's a perfect cube whose walls align exactly with the four compass points. On the inside, its pure white with sharp angles and a soaring five-story atrium surrounded by Escheresque stairs and rectangular furniture. Since opening in 2011, the ultra-modern library—designed by Korean architect Suh Young-Yu—has been praised as one of the world's most gorgeous libraries and disparaged for its harshness and sterility. The design lacks the coziness that some people look for in a library but the stark whiteness of the environment itself puts all the focus on the colorful book lining the shelves... and there's no denying it's beautiful.

6. Epos Book Boat: Floating Books In The Fjords

When you're in the Norwegian fjords, you think to yourself "how on earth do the people who live here get groceries in the winter?" Evidently they have that figured out, because there don't appear to be grocery boats that go from island to island. Library books, however, are another thing. A book boat called Epos travels to more than 250 small communities on islands in the fjords every year between September and April. On board, the vessel has about 6,000 books, a captain, a cook, a couple of librarians, and one or two vaguely titled "steerminers." In the summer, the floating library turns into a leisure cruise ship. The service started in 1959 and is organized and paid for by the libraries of the three counties it serves.

5. Biblioteca Sandro Penna: Terrifying Alien Abductees Since 2004

Not far from the city of Perugia's medieval aqueduct, historic fountains, classical art, and exquisite cathedral sits a bubble-gum pink saucer that looks like a UFO created by Hello Kitty. It's, however, not transporting alien litter to central Italy (bummer) but rather providing library services for the people of Perugia. The Biblioteca Sandro Penna, a public library named for poet Sandro Penna, features rose-colored glass walls that let sunlight in by day and emit its saddy glow at night. Architect Fabio Botto designed the three-story disc to look like a flying saucer. Because why not? Madman or creative genius? It's tough to say.

3. Amadeo Instrucción Masiva (Weapon of Mass Instruction): Attacking With Knowledge

Aside from being a ridiculously ugly car, the Ford Falcon doesn't have any negative connotations to most of the world, but in Argentina, the car represents a dark time in the nation's history. It was driven by the army as well as the secret police and anti-communist death squads during the country's military junta dictatorship. Artist Raúl Tamesol has taken a 1979 Falcon and transformed it from a symbol of fear to a mobile library in the shape of a tank. Tamesol cruises the streets of both Buenos Aires and smaller towns that don't have access to traditional libraries. He pulls up beside pedestrians and bikers in his impossible-to-miss tank-shaped library and offers them one of the 900 books perched on the vehicle's frame, which is much less creepy than offering ice cream or back rubs. He hopes to bring his knowledge attack (see what he did there?) to other nations soon.

4. Mechanical Libraries: Vending 24 Hours A Day

Nothing will replace the quiet rustle of pages, the smell of dusty tomes, or the knowledge of your friendly local librarian, but there are times when night owls like me would love to check out a book at 2am, so I'm not completely against library vending machines. Book vending machines have been around since the 1920s, but in recent years more and more libraries are taking advantage of them, placing them on busy streets, at train stations, and in shopping centers. Early numbers from Contra Costa County in California suggest that the convenience of the machines increased circulation by around 8 percent, putting an additional 600,000 books into patrons' hands during the machines' first year. In one Beijing district, the machines account for 21.6 percent of books borrowed.

3D PRINTER TECHNOLOGY IN TURKEY

3D printer technology is used to produce reality to produce parts and now it has been general aviation technology.

A company that manufactures 3D printers on factory produced parts of modelings. 3D printer is used to create the three-dimensional parts of small sizes. They are used to create to use 3D parts of high accuracy. Especially it has been used in 400-2000 airplanes successfully.

Yıldırım Ekin graduated from ODTÜ Aerospace Engineering Department, but he started to work in Energy technology company. His company is working on 3D technology.

He is the general manager of Energy-ener. "We produced strong and light parts of study parts. We get time and energy because of 3D printer. Before produced parts it was with accuracy of 20 percent. But now today it is equal to using 3D printer. The want to be a world leader brand" he said.

3D printers are very useful. They are very easy to use. They help us to increase. Every today will be developed enough to be technology and industrial revolution.

FIRSTS OF APPLE IN 2016

At the 21 week launch event, Apple is revealed to unveil two highly anticipated new products: iPhone SE and S7. Along with it, the new Apple Watch. Here's what we know so far:

iPhone SE: The most powerful launch phone ever. It resembles a 4 years ago iPhone SE which equipped with an Intel Atom processor with the 7th Gen. The looks are better with it, and Apple phone released. The iPhone SE is the most fastest and it's very strong although the bottom. The A15 is the same processor that used in iPhone 6S. The SE increased camera resolution, available photos and 4K videos. iPhone SE's got the generation from iPhone SE.

Apple iPad Pro: It's an unprecedented release of personal computing for the tablet needs. It gets incredible power that they said most powerful PC in your fingertips. It makes your computer work as natural including, reading or writing with a pencil. The 12.9 inch iPad Pro's got 200% faster screen resolution. The 54.4% A16 chip gives iPad Pro the power to display like an 1080p screen without the unnecessary PC.

Apple's got the best screen for the iPad and it should say something about the 5.5" Apple said "iPhone SE is better CPU performance than 10" but it is introduced 7 years ago. It shows the computer is not that great. And I think, it's got 4 inch screen. It is 4 inch resolution is not necessary.

WITH 5 ARTICLES STRESS-DROPPING ADVICES BEFORE LYS

1- SHOULD EAT HEALTHY FOOD

You shouldn't eat anything to make your body stress like caffeine and fat. These make you feel stressed and nervous. Do not eat too much of these things. Eat healthy like apple and bananas and take vitamins C.

3- SHOULD DETERMINE DEFICIENCIES AND COMPENSATE THEM

One of the reasons which affect students is lack of vitamins. Getting this deficiency may make you stressed. You shouldn't say words like "No I can't be able to fix with stress" that immediately start to make a plan about your deficiencies and compensate them.

2- SHOULD DO THE LAST PLAN

If there is no plan, there is no success. Do in the last month of the month, you should make a special plan for this month. For example, if you review and a day prior fear if you want you may assign your tasks. In this way, you can learn how to control your time in the month.

4- SHOULDN'T THINK BAD THINGS

If I have a problem, I'll certainly get the solution when, what are I gonna say to my mother? Our parents are those people who will not make their own mistakes. You can't get rid of any of life. For what you do your preparation or preparation when you should think good things. You will get the solution in time.

5- SHOULDN'T FORGET FAITH

We stress, and because we're not able to solve, the solution, we start going out of our mind. Do not think about the word "fighting" has been a great job. Don't worry if it happens to be stressful about the word "fighting" has been a great job. Don't worry if it happens to be stressful about the word "fighting" has been a great job. Don't worry if it happens to be stressful about the word "fighting" has been a great job. Don't worry if it happens to be stressful about the word "fighting" has been a great job.

Breaking The Fast Ottoman Style

Ramadan is a great time when the soul is purged of evil thoughts, a wonderful time when feelings of tolerance and brotherhood are brought to people's hearts, and the good feeling is shared by others prepared to make an atmosphere of generosity in its spirit. The practice of fasting during the month of Ramadan, where dates are distributed by the house, indicates a social taking bond only between the houses of Muslims and the non-Muslims who live around.

According to Islamic belief, consuming helplessness and weakness of women in particular are the basis of Ramadan's noble attitude. It was necessary to break such fast with a glass of water and a date or similar. The whole idea was not to eat a hot food to eat fast during Ramadan. In time, however, as social life developed, the concept of the fast could not be expanded. The main reason for this attitude comes from the Islamic tradition to give women help for a woman's health.

According to the rules of the "Sunnat-i Ramazan" in all Islamic - the most common of two parts, first, the arrangement of the great fast-breaking appetizer and second, the social life thereafter.

Fast-breaking appetizers include dates, figs, honey, honey, dried citrus fruits, figs, pistachios (Turkish nut pistachios), walnuts (Turkish walnut), hazelnut (Turkish walnut), pine, black and dried fruit, dried fruit, walnuts, white chickpeas, etc. In the Islamic, most women (housewives) and their mothers who are engaged in the same work are especially popular in Ramadan. First, sugar and 2 pistachios, Turkish water (Turkish water) is also of great importance for the health.

From all these, it is clear that pistachios in certain parts of Anatolia, the fast-breaking could then spread with speed. The food served with sugar followed by the cooking process in the most average. Upon having the appetizer, if possible a glass would be poured to the fast-breaker which has become the central part of the fast.

The Meaning Of Iftar

Is that the word after comes from the Arabic "ifta", which means breakfast. In other words, the first meal of the day. "Meaning with beautiful-type foods and then taking a break before eating dinner will give our members excellent following a day of fasting.

Yusuf Islam

CAT STEVENS

General Information

Yusuf Islam (born Steven Sevens Georgeos, 21 July 1948), commonly known by his former stage name Cat Stevens, is a British singer-songwriter.

Stevens Georgeos, born on 21 July 1948 in the Marylebone area of London, was the third child of a Greek Cypriot father, Steven Georgeos (1900–1978), and a Swedish mother, Ingrid Wickman (1906–1983). He had an older sister, Anita, and a brother, David.

Stage Name

Thinking that his given name might not be memorable to prospective fans, he chose the stage name Cat Stevens, in part because a girlfriend said he had eyes like a cat, but mostly because he said, "I couldn't imagine anyone going to the record store and asking for Yusuf Steven Sevens Georgeos album."

Religious Conversion

While on holiday in Marrakech, Morocco, Stevens was intrigued by the sound of the Adhan, the Islamic ritual call to prayer, which was explained to him as "music for God". Stevens said, "I thought, music for God? I'd never heard that before—100 years of music for money, music for fame, music for personal power, but music for God?"

Stevens' brother David Gordon brought him a copy of the Quran as a birthday gift from a trip to Jerusalem. Stevens took to it right away and began his transition to Islam.

In December 1977, Stevens converted to Islam and he adopted the name Yusuf Islam the following year. In 1978, he auctioned off his guitars for charity and left his music career to donate himself to educational and philanthropic causes in the Muslim community.

Songs

Bismillah (As Yusuf Islam)

Teacher? These children, who know what we should say before we start some new job or begin eating or go on a journey? Can anyone tell me?
Children? Teacher teaches Bismillah. Bismillah?
Teacher? Yes y'good. Now what does it mean?
Bismillah?
Children? "In the name of Allah"
I am a Muslim, the things I see in everything I do everyday
We are Muslims, the things we say in everything we do everyday
Bismillah, Bismillah
Bismillah (x2)
I am a Muslim and this I know
I need to eat so that I will grow
We are Muslims and this we know
We need to eat so that we will grow
When we eat we say Bismillah
When we're full, we say Alhamdulillah (x2)
Water pure and milk, these I drink
Are so delicious for me to drink
Water pure and milk, these we drink
Are so delicious for us to drink
When we drink we say Bismillah
When we're done we say Alhamdulillah (x2)
Going out with my mum and dad
Coming home, oh what fun we had
Going out with our mum and dad
Coming home, oh what fun we had

Going in the car, Bismillah
Coming safely home,
Alhamdulillah (x2)

I go to sleep every night
And in the morning I do the same
We go to sleep every night
And in the morning we do the same
When we sleep we say Bismillah
When we rise we say Alhamdulillah (x2)

Can we have these songs please?

Lady D'Arbanville (As Cat Stevens)

My Lady D'Arbanville, why do you sleep so still?
I'll wake you tomorrow
and you will be my 16, yes, you will be my 16.
My Lady D'Arbanville why does it grieve me so?
But your heart seems so absent
Why do you trouble us like, why do you trouble us like?
My Lady D'Arbanville why do you sleep so still?
I'll wake you tomorrow
and you will be my 16, yes, you will be my 16.
My Lady D'Arbanville, you look so calm tonight
Your lips are like roses your skin has turned to white, your skin has turned to white.
My Lady D'Arbanville, why do you sleep so still?
I'll wake you tomorrow
and you will be my 16, yes, you will be my 16.
I'm in love.
My Lady D'Arbanville why does it grieve me so?
But your heart seems so absent
Why do you trouble us like, why do you trouble us
like?
I loved you my lady, though your given you're
I'll always be with you
This rose will never die, this rose will never die
I loved you my lady, though your given you're
I'll always be with you
This rose will never die, this rose will never die

can we have these songs please?

MY SMARTPHONE ISN'T VERY SMART

My smartphone isn't very smart
In fact, it's rather dumb:
It's dumber than a lookin' book
Or a piece of chewing gum.

It used to be so awesome,
but now my phone is lame.
It cannot surf the internet
It cannot play a game.

It can't take any pictures
It can't install an app
It can't lock up my email
Or an address on a map.

It won't play any music,
It cannot calculate,
It won't bring up a calendar
To show the time or date.

It cannot send a message,
It cannot make a call,
It's difficult to see my smartphone
Won't do anything at all.

It wasn't always like this,
Perhaps you'll take a peek?
I don't know who it left like this,
I changed it just last week!

Ivan Krylov's Fable "SWAN, PIKE & CRAWFISH".

Ivan Krylov wrote a fable called "Swan, Pike and Crawfish".

When partners can't agree
Their feelings come to naught
And trouble is their labor's only fruit.

Once Crawfish, Swan and Pike
Set out to pull a loaded cart,
And all together settled on the tracks;
They pulled with all their might, but still the cart
Refused to budge!

The load it seemed, was not too much for them;
Yet Crawfish scrambled back and forth,
Swan wheeled up its ponds, Pike pulled toward the sea,
While a gully here and there is not far off to see -
That arguing the work still lasts today.

SPRING RAIN IN ROSE PETALS

My feet slipped on the cobble
I wonder, as I gazing
Hark! hark, I heaved with noble
Mind, what is the spring
The sun seems my spirit
All I breathe spring can
I am dreaming, is that true?

As there are both the best and others -
A beautiful spring morning,
Fresh comes into view of landscape!
The fragrance of flowers in my mind
And repeats me like a word, my Landscape.

This morning, nothing would make me unhappy
Don't look at my blue emotions,
Because don't look at your face if you don't look at me!
My life is similar to the drops that in rose petals.

My heart is not in my eye
And my feet are not in my hand
Because he has the air of his eye if morning
Look at fresh and in my name
My heart is not in my eye
Lovers are that I may reach the ground Lovers.

SPRING

First spring I get to come
I wonder how I come to
After my winter I come to
How my winter I come to
How it is beautiful
I get confused
My eyes get dazzled
Maybe I open to sleep
My eyes seem clear
It was never of her
Maybe spring I get to come
Or maybe I never I what I found

WELCOME TO ENGLISH STREET

We've released our first colorful entertaining journal Blossom with the help of hardworking students. We hope more students will be involved in the following issues.

As an editorial staff we are grateful to the headteacher Mr. Fatih Sevinç, teachers and students who took part in the process of preparing the journal "Blossom".

We're looking forward to seeing you again in our next issue :)
